INTRODUCTION

I joined ICCR library in December 1958 after serving in Delhi College Library from 1952-58 (Presently known as Zakir Husain College)

I have been in touch from the very beginning with Oriental Languages, and my interest has remained intact with all these languages.

Before my super-annuation in December 1993, I had already started jotting down some notes relating to the manuscripts donated by the Hon'ble Maulana Azad, First Education Minister of India, to the ICCR Library (1947-58). They numbered around 150, and during the last 10 years, some more were added and the number rose to 192, of these 46 are in Arabic, 134 in Persian, 12 in Urdu, making a total 192 manuscripts.

I mentioned regarding it to my (الاستاذ) Prof. Dr. M.S. Ashraf, then Head, Deptt of Arabic, University of Delhi, who encouraged me and took keen interest and to helped me in preparing the present bibliography with his considerable academic experience. I am indebted to him, as without his help this catalogue would not have seen the light of the day. During last 10 years, he repeatedly impressed upon me, the need to complete this important task and at last, I have been able to accomplishe this.

A few months ago, I went to refer to some books in ICCR, where Ms. Minakshi Mishra, the Librarian, showed interest in my work and asked me to show her my manuscript.

Thanks to the Almighty Allah that it is before the intelligentsia to judge.

I must thank Sh. Rakesh Kumar the Director General, ICCR for his interest, inspite of his pre-occupation.

I am extremely grateful to Dr. M.K. Piri, Director, Noor Microfilm Centre, Iran Culture House, New Delhi, who was pressurizing me to get it ready for publication. His valuable advice remains a source of inspiration.

I must thank the following colleagues and computer professionals computerists who rendered it possible in the present shape.

1. Muhammad Sameeruz Zaman.
2. Mr. Muhammmd. Habib Ashraf for finality of Computing the script.
3. M/s. Shamim, Sajid Razvi and Sajid Husain.
4. Ms. Afshan Anjum (ICCR Library)

I must be lacking in thanking for the blessings of my better half Mrs. Farhat Munir, a devoted teacher and housewife for bearing with me in completion of this work.

Lastly, I also thank my youngest son, K. Suheb Ahmad for his devotion and to Fakiha for her artistic skill in producing the name of the Creator of this world.

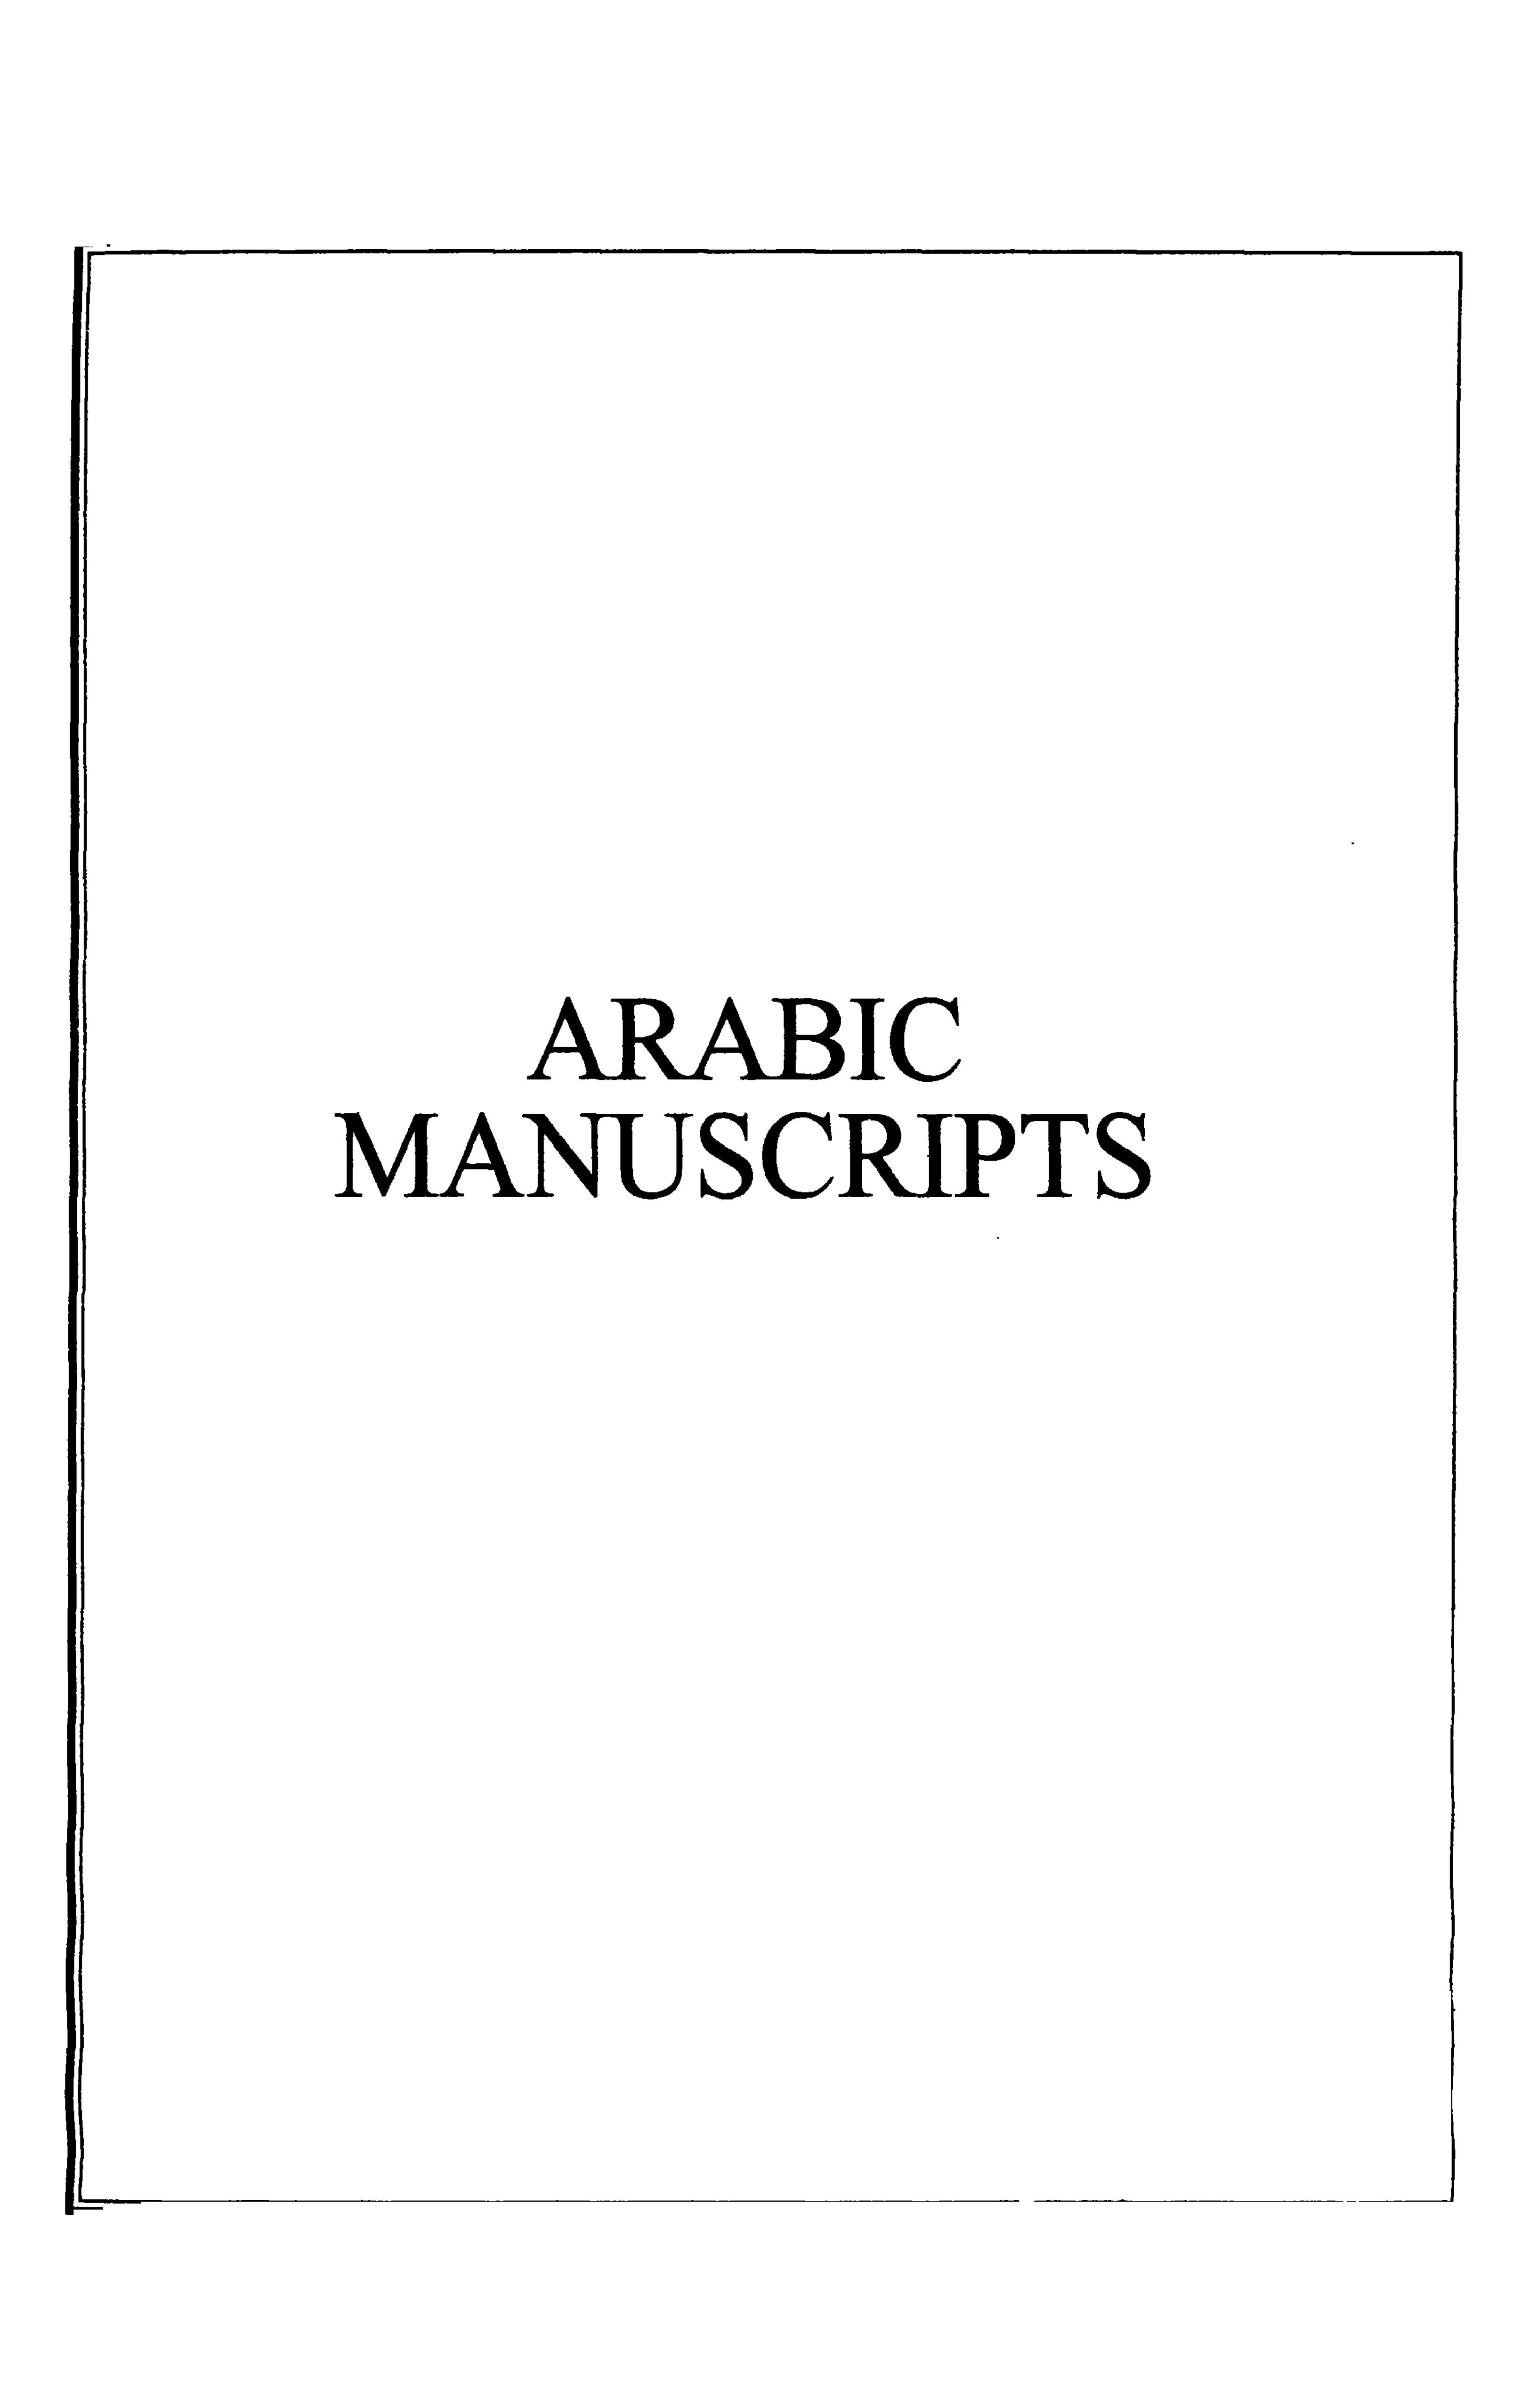

In the end I seek the indulgence of my readers for a few misprints which may have crept into the book inspite of my best efforts.

The most important is Egyptian scholar Rashid Raḍa's Tafsir -al-Manar.

The dedicationist offered to a stranger who took a very long journey just to keep him abreast to clarification of some of the verses from the Holy Qurān. He was a poor chap and left us, that -intimating him lest he might give him a modest amount bear his expenses of journey.

This translation consists of 3 Vs. in Urdu and it bears an English version by 'Abdullah Yusuf 'Ali, in Maulana life. And Maulana himself had appreciated his lucid style.

Author:- Āzad, Abul Kalam

Scribe:- Āzad, Abul Kalam

Date of Inscription:- between 1940-1950 Place:

Script:- Nastaliq Lines:- 27 Folios:- 53 Language:- Urdu

End:- اس سلسلہ میں وہ تسلیم کرتا ہے کہ ہندوستان کی صنّاعی تمام ملکوں سے بازی لے گئی ہے۔

Remarks:- Al-Beruni wrote several books on different topics such as Geography and astronomy, etc., etc., and thus rectified his predecessor's errors. When he had concluded his famous book 'Indica', he thought to compile such a book which might have a thorough knowledge upon all these topics.

The last days of his life were prosperous. When the reign of the kingdom came into the hands of Sultan Masud, son of Sultan Mahmud Ghaznavi (with whom he had always strained relations) And luckily, this period was favourable for Al-Berunis ideas.

Naturally the change into the events left an additional impact. And porbably in the year 1031 A.D., wrote a book and entitled it 'al-Qanun' and dedicated it to king Sultan Mas'ud.

This book wherein Edward Sachau (ایڈورڈ سخاؤ) has rightly said . 'It is the greatest achievement of his life.' (preface Kitabul Hind, p. 11.)

This book comprises of 11 treatises and every treatise contains 09 to 17 chapters. In the 5th treatise the chpaters IX and X highlight the hemisphere and the entire worlds latitude and longitude and their tables have been described.

These tables should be treated as resourceful treasure of the geographical achievement of that time.

Naturally, the change in conditions prevailing at that time activated him. And probably in the year 1031 A.D. he dedicated his book 'al-Qanun' to Sultan Mas'ud who always patronized such literary activities.

It is in decent Nastaliq script. The scribe is not known, but late Maulana has himself corrected it. It is an enlarged sized manuscript and in a very decent condition.
